The San Diego Business Journal's list of Best Places to Work recognizes San Diego's best employers for their outstanding employee satisfaction and contributions to the community.

Winners are determined through a two-part assessment process including an employer questionnaire and employee satisfaction survey, and will be ranked and highlighted in a special section of the San Diego Business Journal, as well as recognized at an awards event in August. The "Best Places to Work in San Diego" program is a free county-wide program managed by the Best Companies Group.
